

CTN WEB CONFERNECE

TUESDAY, JUNE 24, 2008
9:30 – 10:30 AM CT

Learning Styles: What Works?

Featuring:

Terry Donovan, Co-owner,
Personal Power Products
www.personalpowerproducts.com

Target Audience: Employees at all levels

Program Overview:

This interactive web conference will introduce participants to the concept of individual learning styles and how those styles affect the work place. Personal Power Product's (P3's) experience in this area seems to indicate that certain styles are drawn to certain professions and jobs and organizations often develop a culture of the predominant style(s) among its employees.

In the energy industry, which has the full range of professions and jobs, knowledge of styles will help understand employee motivations and reactions and it will help employees understand their counterparts in other locations or partner companies.

Please join Terry Donovan with P3 to learn how you can use their knowledge of learning styles to improve personal effectiveness, improve team functioning and appreciate the importance of a diversity of learning styles in the work place.

Participants will be able to:

- Understand that not everyone processes information in the same way.
- Learn how to take advantage of the differences in Learning Styles.
- How to work better as a team.
